Q: Form handling on submit I have a form in which I have 3 fields. I have two buttons: New and Edit. When a user enter text in the textbox, a span tag is added to the text, an instance of the class is created. When the user clicks on the new button, the new instance should be added to the list, and when the user clicks on the edit button, I want to remove the span tag and the instance from the list. When the user clicks on the edit button, the first item from the list should be deleted. What approach can I use to implement this? I am including the code. Working... Enter your text here New Edit Remove var button = document.querySelectorAll('.w3-button')
